Fr. Matt's Sabbatical In Overview (January -June 2025)

A few weeks ago, I announced that I would be going on my Sabbatical. For those unfamiliar with the technical term: a priest's sabbatical is given after at least 7 years of ministry. It is granted to a priest that makes a plan that centers around personal, spiritual, and professional growth. It is a time for both rest and work outside the usual confines of day-to-day life. A Sabbatical is an opportunity for both time away from parish life and time for ways of growing it. My Sabbatical is a little unique in that I composed a great deal of it on my own, as opposed to taking a series of pre-set programs. As it is unique, I would like to share with you the plan and hopeful outcomes:

January:

After a brief period of time helping Fr. Michael (our new associate) get settled, I will drive down to Texas City, Texas, just 45 minutes southeast of Houston. A gracious pastor and his parish have offered to house me for a brand-new type of internship through Divine Renovation. [Divine Renovation is a program for parish renewal and professional growth of priests and staff.]

During my time there, I will be reading some books on professional administration while also learning from a more veteran team on things such as: long-term planning and sustainability, ministry creation, and parish culture. I hope to do some writing from the knowledge I acquire, both for the benefit of Immaculate Conception and the Archdiocese, as I believe that long-term planning better stabilizes the trajectory of a parish. I hope to even create some videos on the subjects that I gain a better understanding of.

Mid-February:

After a month there, I will drive across Texas to Scottsdale, Arizona to a Franciscan Retreat Center for some spiritual time. One thing that I have noticed about pastoring is how prayer often suffers as a result – I do not mean trust in God or personal prayer, per se, but that when my mind is preoccupied by so many things, taking meaningful time to pray becomes rarer. This quiet time will allow me to reconnect with prayer.

March:

This will allot me some personal time for travel and reconnecting with family.

April:

The whole month of April will be spent at a Benedictine Monastery (Meinrad) for academic studies, yet to be determined, but I imagine I will focus on Saint John Henry Newman and his theology of Assent. I will not bore you with the details here, but he is a person and saint with whom I have great fondness.

May:

I will then travel to England and Ireland to visit many pilgrimage sites, including those of Saint John Henry Newman. I will also visit the ancestral land of my mother's side of the family (Kerry and Cork). I hope to offer Mass at the cemetery where my family is buried to cap off my pilgrimage.

June:

After an extended period of travel, I will return to Chicago to rest, reset, and return to IC. I hope that what I have learned during my time away will serve me well in a new chapter of priesthood and my pastorate at IC.

I plan to write to you all as I am away – maybe even post a video or two.

No need to say goodbye just yet as I will be here through Christmas. Until then,

- Fr. Matt
