2020: A Year in Review

I preached at our evening Mass on Christmas about 2020 coming to a close. We should not simply place this experience of ours in the rear-view, ignoring the lessons it had to teach us. Any experience is valuable if we are willing to learn from it. Scripture is full of examples of the benefits of trials, exiles, and loss. It is not that we should necessarily pray for these things—life has its own way of bringing them about—but rather to accept them and grow from them.

“Son though he was, he learned obedience from what he suffered; and when he was made perfect, he became the source of eternal salvation for all who obey him” (Heb 5:8-9).

Prosperity and poverty can lead to renewal with the right mindset.

What are some of the losses we experienced this year?

For some it was family, while for others it was money and work. Still others were separated from family and friends. Many of us were isolated, and others to rather crippling degrees.

In many ways, this year has allowed us unlike any other to strip away what is unnecessary in our lives. No amount of binge-watching shows can replace human interactions. No amount of technology can substitute intimacy. Many of us were able to return to simple holidays and more direct means of affection. Still others longingly wait to return to the world after receiving the vaccine, especially the elderly and vulnerable. In losing our normal way of life, we can perhaps appreciate the beauty of simplicity.

What are some of the things we gained?

Technology is a blessing in many ways, and we embraced it. Video calls, virtual meetings, streaming, and all sorts of things. Even in our Church, we experimented with live-streaming, recordings, and video messaging. I think we did so to great success, keeping people connected to us and each other in a way that would have otherwise been impossible, if not superficial. I do not think virtual Mass and prayer should become the norm for people able and healthy to worship—though that isn’t the concern at this time—but for the elderly, especially because of illness or weather, I think this is a fantastic thing. For travelers too, this can be very useful. How we integrate technology into a more normalized world is a question on the horizon, but for now let us be thankful for what we have.

Hospitality and communication also come to mind. Our volunteers have done an excellent job in making people feel valued, comfortable, and safe. This is something we need to build upon here at IC. It is my hope that as we have reduced our Mass schedule, it is not for the sake of making things easier. The purpose is that we as a community should want excellence. Excellent music, Masses, and community should all be goals we constantly strive for.

While 2020 was difficult, I look forward to what 2021 can bring. With all of us together, I am sure that we can do great things.

Fr. Matt

Snapshots from our Christmas celebration...

With truly grateful hearts, we thank all of our Art & Environment volunteers for their kind assistance behind the scenes decorating and preparing our Church for our Christmas celebration. We hope that you enjoyed the fruits of their labor. We also thank our dedicated Parish Reopening Team volunteers (led by Jocelyn Lim, Darlene Mroz and Joe Jummati) who graciously sacrificed time with their own families to serve as greeters, hand sanitizers and ushers at all of our Christmas Masses to help us keep our parish family safe as we gathered together to celebrate the birth of our Savior. We are truly blessed at IC to witness God's love in action through the many good works of those who humbly care for our community. May God bless each one of them abundantly!

School News...

'Twas the Day Before Christmas Break...

Our Second Grade students read the Christmas Reader's Theater: 'Twas the Day Before Christmas Break. This year looked a little different with masks and social distancing, but that didn't stop the excitement and great reading from these enthusiastic Second Grade children. Everyone practiced very hard all week to prepare! Regrettably, the children were unable to go from classroom to classroom to perform, however we were able to share the joy with parents on social media.

We wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

Live The Liturgy: Inspiration For The Week...

Even the slightest flicker of a light helps to properly orient us when we find ourselves in total darkness. Being in darkness can be unsettling and even a bit unnerving. We lose our focus and struggle to find our bearings and achieve balance. On life's journey we may think we are walking in the light but are really lingering in darkness. We do not see the full picture, either because we are distracted, disinterested, or even apprehensive. Sometimes, we even choose to close our eyes when the light is readily available to illuminate our path. Do we really desire to know the truth of who we are? In Jesus Christ, a light has been given to those who dwell in darkness. God's revelation gives us the light to see where we come from, who we are and where we are going. It also tells us that this Good News is not meant for just a privileged few but is intended to go out to all the world. Is this something we want to see?

Gospel Meditation - Encourage a Deeper Understanding of Scripture

"Where is that thing?" mumbled Bob as he searched frantically on his dimly lit desk for the current electric bill. "I know I put it right on top of these papers this morning!" Growing in frustration and bordering on anger, he flies stuff around, moves books and opines why simple tasks need to be so hard. Enter his wife, who calmly says, "Maybe it would help if you put the light on, dear." The desk light goes on and lo and behold, there is the electric bill right where Bob left it earlier. All it took was a little light!

We stubbornly refuse to turn on the lights! Either we are distracted, determined, disinterested, preoccupied, stubborn, apprehensive, or all of the above. Or perhaps, we fail to do the obvious. We would rather live our lives with the dimmest of lights or even in total darkness. Why are we afraid to do something so that we can actually see? It might help us to find quicker and better answers to problems, the meaning of life, relationships, happiness, and what is ultimate truth. Yet, we stumble along, moving things from one side to the other, getting angry, feeling cheated, being unsettled, resigning ourselves to the agony of defeat once again.

"And behold, the star that they had seen at its rising preceded them, until it came and stopped over the place where the child was." The light has come into the world in the person of Jesus Christ! We no longer have to fumble in the darkness. We have been gifted with the illumination we need to see our way through things and find what we really are looking for. All these years later, however, so many are still reluctant to accept him. Perhaps they are unconvinced, disinterested, preoccupied, stubborn, apprehensive, or all of the above. Everyone has their own reason for not wanting to turn on the switch.

But there are so many answers to so many of our problems in this humble Child of Nazareth. A simple birth teaches us about God's tender wedded relationship with humanity. It speaks to the expanse of God's salvation across the globe, and the incarnate Divine wonders and blessings that are a part of our life moment to moment. It calls us to understand the design of world order God intended as found in the Beatitudes, the sacredness of every human life and all of creation and the meaning of things we struggle with most, like suffering and death. We have a lot of Good News to share, not just with a privileged few but with all the world. All races and creeds can receive God's healing word. God continues to manifest himself even now! Use the light to find what you are really looking for!

Everyday Stewardship – Recognize God in your Ordinary Moments

Wise Men See God in the Simple Things...

If you are on social media, you have probably seen a meme going around that features this quote: "God has a plan for your life. The enemy has a plan for your life. Be ready for both. Just be wise enough to know which one to battle and which one to embrace."

There were certainly two competing plans for the Magi: God's and Herod's. And, wise as they supposedly were, it wasn't entirely easy for the Magi to discern which was which. After all, Herod posed as a friend. He offered the Magi hospitality and kindness. Though the Gospel doesn't say so, he probably flattered them and appealed to every moral weakness he could observe in them. In his palace, they must have felt great physical comfort – rest and tables of plenty on what was an otherwise long and treacherous journey.

But if the Magi were honest with themselves, I'll bet they would have admitted that, regardless of Herod's charm, they felt a gnawing sense of doubt while in his presence. When they looked upon the Christ Child, born in a stable without any of the comforts of the world or protections of wealth, they probably felt the opposite. They probably felt safe.

The Magi were lucky enough to have the right plan spelled out for them in a dream, but for the rest of us, it's enough to remember this: God's plan is often the one that leads us to places of great simplicity, great humility and great love. Let us have the wisdom to view power with suspicion, and innocence with admiration.
